Reds Take Seoul

Enemy Trying To Trap UN

TOKYO, Jan. 5 — (Friday) — Communist Chinese and North Korean troops overran fire-ravaged Seoul Thursday, then crossed the frozen Han river and attacked United Nations troops retreating to elude a threatening enemy trap.

Headless of many hundreds of casualties inflicted by UN air and naval bombardment, artillery-supported columns of a 300,000-man Red force swiftly pursued and hammered at U. S. Eighth Army units below the fallen South Korean capital.

From the southeast, another 180,000-man Communist host surged forward in a flanking drive aimed at closing a giant pincer to bottle up the UN forces on the Inchon peninsula and force them into the Yellow Sea.

An Allied fleet was standing by off Inchon for a possible evacuation by sea.

Field dispatches received shortly before midnight Thursday said the Eighth Army's American and other Allied troops already were setting the torch to installations to prepare for further retreats.

THESE PREPARATIONS were in progress at new positions west and south of Seoul only a few hours after the last Eighth Army units had withdrawn from the capital while Chinese spearheads of the invading hosts were entering it.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Marshall declared that the situation in Korea is developing "almost exactly as anticipated."

Marshall made a surprise appearance at the regular news briefing in the Pentagon to assure reporters that the United Nations forces are being deployed in accordance with further anticipation concerning the Chinese Red offensive.

Pentagon sources said this does not necessarily mean that UN forces will get out of Korea.

The secretary said the Chinese Communists have "much more artillery in this offensive than they had in the first slug"—a reference to the Red drive from the Manchurian border starting Nov. 27, which he said was carried out largely by foot soldiers.

Even with the increase in artillery, he said, the Communists still have "comparatively little artillery, and little or no air."

He said the principal problem is the enemy's overwhelming numbers.

Students Away; Burglars Play

TIFFIN, Jan. 4 — Students at Heidelberg college here took a sad inventory today to discover that property worth hundreds of dollars was stolen while they were home for vacations.

At first, officials believed the thefts involved in three burglaries of the women's dormitories were small.

But, today's inventory shows — so far — 15 typewriters are missing along with two radios, a record player, a fur coat and a number of smaller items.

She enclosed the key to the house, stating that she was going to Florida to live with her mother.

ADMINISTRATION HOGTIED

GOP-Dixiecrat Coalition To Control House Moves

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — The House Rules Committee, controlled by a Southern Democratic-GOP coalition, emerged today as virtual dictator over the enactment of major legislation this year.

A 244 to 179 vote of the House granted the committee veto power over most important bills.

The action meant in effect that no major legislation requested by the administration, other than appropriation bills,

Farmers Receive 4 Pct. Increase For Products

COLUMBUS, Jan. 4 — The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service announced today that Ohio farmers received a four percent increase in the prices they received for produce during the month ended Dec. 15.

The mid-December prices were four percent above the previous period and 19 percent higher than the same period in 1949.

Hogs and chickens were the exceptions in the price trend. These two items were down slightly from the preceding period.

An advance of 15 cents placed wheat at $2.11 per bushel and soybeans increased for the second consecutive month, reaching a price of $2.72 per bushel.

Feed grains and hay were six percent higher than the previous month and nearly 25 percent above last year. Corn increased 10 cents to $1.53 per bushel and oats, at 92 cents, added six cents.

Meat animal prices rose slightly over the Nov. 15 level. A 10-cent decrease in hogs offset advances of from 10 to 30 cents in other livestock. Meat animal prices were approximately a fifth above last year.

Dairy products increased four percent above the previous month and rose nine percent above last year. Eggs continued to rise, reaching 57 cents per dozen—the highest since September, 1949.

Chickens were 23 cents per pound, a cent below 1949. Wool set a record high with an advance of six cents per pound to bring the price to 74 cents. The new level was almost 50 percent greater than the 1949 price.

icebreakers loaned the Soviet Union has been returned. The other two have been reported stuck in the ice in the Arctic for the last two years.

It was understood that Moscow will send a delegation to Washington to discuss a settlement.

The Russian account had almost been written off the books as uncollectable.

The best interpretation given to the revival of this spirit of settlement, is that it may be a part of a Russian peace maneuver.

The United States has emphasized that it will make no charge for lend-lease materials used in actual combat during the last war. It has also indicated it would not charge for essential supplies for the civilian economy prior to the ending of the war.

In other lend-lease settlements, a small charge for surplus property has been made for such items as trucks, railroad equipment and other materials which might be beneficial in restoring the economy of the debtor country.

In most cases, settlement has been made at 10 cents on the dollar or less for civilian goods and surplus remaining in the hands of the ally. Repayment terms have been spread over a period of years at a low rate of interest.

Price, Wage Controls Due Soon, President Reports

Food Curbs Said Of Top Importance

Message Monday To Give Details

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — President Truman said today that price controls will be applied as quickly as possible on food and other living essentials and that wage curbs will be imposed simultaneously.

The chief executive made it plain that he will ask overall control authority in his State-Of-The-Union Message to Congress next Monday.

He declared that price and wage controls will be imposed wherever necessary as soon as enforcement machinery is set up.

Mr. Truman said he believes across-the-board price controls over the entire national economy eventually will be required.

The President declared that price curbs will be applied on food and other necessities of life just as fast as control machinery can be set up.

He pointed out that the Defense Production Act must be changed before he can impose price controls on food. The law now ties parity price levels for farm products to rises in the cost of living.

MR. TRUMAN SAID controls should begin with food, because it is basic to the cost of living and to inflation.

The President evaded any direct answer to questions about rationing. He said "that bridge will be crossed when we get to it."

Mr. Truman specifically emphasized the need for price controls on foods. He said that prices of food are basic to the whole economy of the nation, but that is where inflation begins, and where inflation must be stopped.

The President was asked whether he thought that enough was being done to stop inflation.

He said that everything that was possible to do up to now

Longer Period Of Draft Duty To Be Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Rep. Vinson, (D) Ga., said today the Defense Department will ask Congress to extend from 21 to 27 months the period of compulsory military service.

The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee told newsmen "that's pretty well settled as far as the department is concerned."

He added that the department will submit within the next few days its recommendations for revision of the draft law and announced that his committee will begin hearings Jan. 18.

Vinson added that the Defense Department may also recommend:

1. That the draft age be changed from 19 through 25 to include 18-year-olds and men above 25.

2. That the draft be applied to single men and married men without children in all age groups.

The congressman declared flatly that "no veterans will be drafted."

He asserted: "We told the department that we will not consider the drafting of veterans."

VINSON DISCLOSED also that Selective Service and his

Western Union Puts Up Bookie Wires; Cops Cut

NEWPORT, Ky., Jan. 4 — Newport Police Chief George Gugel, ousted in an anti-gambling crusade which has seen racing service wires cut down twice since Tuesday, comes up for a civil service hearing today.

Western Union linemen yesterday put up the wires first severed Tuesday afternoon in "Operation Snippers." Then three additional policemen joined the ranks of the chopping brigade, swelling its ranks to five, and not only hacked down the repaired wires but also added some new ones to their collection.

In addition, they confiscated 5,000 feet of the wire.

Meanwhile, Pete Schmidt, owner of the biggest downtown casino, was held to the grand jury on gambling charges and several other bookies were fined $50 and costs.

"Operation Snippers" had the approval of City Manager Malcolm Rhoades who said:

"If the police can definitely establish that wires are carrying racing news to bookmakers, they should go ahead and whack them off, regardless of whom it hurts."

Rhoades fired Police Chief Gugel last month, charging he was lax in enforcing the gambling ban initiated last April.

New Winter Flood Threatens Local Bottoms

Pickaway County Thursday found itself threatened by another winter flood.

Local weather observers reported early Thursday that the Scioto River has reached 13.94 feet here, an increase of 9.90 feet during the last 24 hours.

In addition, the river, swollen by rainstorms Tuesday night and Wednesday, is expected to reach 17.50 feet by Friday noon, a half-foot above flood stage.

Joe Rooney, local state highway garage superintendent, said that Route 762, known as the Mackey-Ford road, was closed to traffic early Thursday.

"The road had about a foot of water over it," Rooney said. "As far as I know, that is the only road threatened so far."

Meanwhile, families in suburban Columbus communities were evacuated as Scioto River tributaries flooded cellars and covered highways.

The Franklin County sheriff's office reported that from midnight to 2:30 a. m. Thursday, Big Walnut and Allen creeks rose five inches, flooding scores

REFUGEES SUFFERING AGAIN

Helpless Seoul Battered For Third Time In War

By LEE FERRERO
INS War Correspondent

TOKYO, Jan. 4 — The South Korean capital of Seoul, helpless pawn in the war against the Communists, died in flames today.

This correspondent flew over the city on a flight from an airbase in Southern Japan and watched flames lick their way through the once-proud metropolis in the pre-dawn darkness.

The skies were illuminated by fires set by withdrawing United Nations troops even as Chinese Communist forces were entering the capital's northern outskirts.

For the second time in six months Seoul was falling into the hands of the Red hordes—superior once again in numbers to the UN forces.

On the ground to the south of the laming city, headlights of UN truck convoys—bumper to bumper in their haste—serpented along for endless miles.

PASSING OVER Seoul, we flew to the west to the coastal area of Inchon and saw the running lights of ships waiting to take refugees, possibly troops and equipment aboard.

This same port was the scene only a few months ago of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's daring amphibious stroke which resulted in the short-lived UN occupation of Seoul.

It was just last Sept. 15 that South Korean troops and American Army men and Marines joined to scale Inchon's challenging seawalls and sweep to the interior to liberate the capital—now once again in enemy hands.

We turned back to the east and as the first red-hued fingers of dawn clutched at the morning sky, American artillery

lery—in new positions south of the Han river—lobbed shells into stricken Seoul—so recently a haven for the UN forces.

Huge smoke clouds drifted lazily up over the capital in a bitter funeral pyre.

Back at our base in Japan we met American personnel who had seen the tragic evacuation of Seoul before they were flown to safety.

They told the age-old story of the suffering and despair of civilian refugees who suddenly found their city a battleground for the third time in six months.

THEIR EXODUS to nowhere was perhaps a little more pitiful than any of the other flights in Korea—and all have been pitiful.

Women and children were beside the roads—ready victims of starvation and exposure.

People fought for places on South Korean army trucks—places which Korean soldiers reportedly sold for a million won (about $250 American money).

Some trucks were so overloaded they broke down as they made their way along the highway to Inchon where the refugees thought they might be allowed to board UN ships and escape the terror of the Communists.

Other refugees headed south across the frozen Han river along with streams of military traffic.

An American officer who witnessed the refugees' flight—men, women and children with all their worldly possessions on their backs—told us bitterly how he had seen the same exodus last June when the Communists first invaded South Korea.

"It's the same old story for them," he said. "They had that same old look in their faces—that here-we-go-again look."

Accusations Of 'Political Deal' Hover Over Ohio Legislature

COLUMBUS, Jan. 4 — Accusations of a political deal over the appointment of house committees hovered over the Ohio Legislature today as it went into a long week-end recess.

Rep. A. G. Landon (D-Belmont), majority leader last session, charged that a "Horstman-Miller-Schorr deal" resulted in his being left off the all-powerful rules committee on which he served last year.

The rules committee has life-and-death power over all bills since it decides the makeup of the house calendar.

Landon, who was defeated for minority leader this session by Cleveland Attorney James Carney, asserted at that time that Cleveland's Democratic political boss, Ray Miller, dictated the choice of the Democrat floor leader. He added:

"An Al Horstman (Democratic national committeeman from Dayton) and Ray T. Miller deal seems to have come to the legislature and dictated the membership of the rules committee, with the cooperation of Ed Schorr (former state GOP chairman from Cincinnati) the master mind."

"THIS IS CHAPTER two of what happened in the Democratic caucus. My experience as a member of the rules committee (in the last session) was bypassed."

The rules committee, as appointed by Speaker Gordon Renner, Cincinnati Republican and close friend and relative of Schorr, included Renner, Majority Leader William Saxbe (R-Champaign); Sam B. Nicley (R-Clinton); Griffith Evans (R-Portage); Newton B. Chapman (R-Geauga); Carney, and Jesse Yoder (D-Montgomery). Yoder is from Dayton, Horstman's hometown.

The other major committee plum—that of chairman of the finance committee which carries with it membership on the permanent state control and emergency boards—went to Rep. Frank McClure (R-Ashland).

President Says No A-Bombing Set For China

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — President Truman firmly stated today that the United States will not and does not intend to bomb Chinese cities.

The President told his weekly news conference that the United States is not formally at war.

He said that U. S. participation in the heavy fighting in Korea still remains on the basis of this country carrying out an obligation to the United Nations—an obligation, the President said, that was assumed by the U. S. when it signed the UN charter.

The President was asked whether the United States would consult the UN regarding a proposal to bomb across the Korean border into China proper.

Mr. Truman firmly replied that he does not have such a matter under consideration.

He said: "We do not intend to bomb China."

Backseat Driver Waves Big Club

LISBON, Jan. 4 — Backseat driving was given a new twist in Ohio when the wife of one unhappy motorist regulated his speed by means of a kitchen chair leg with a bent nail in one end.

Threatening to put a hole in his head if her husband went too fast, his wife waved the deadly club menacingly until Lisbon police came on the scene.

"If I go over 50 miles an hour, she waves that club over my head," the relieved, but unidentified, husband explained to police.

He agreed to withdraw from the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, leaving the way clear for the reelection of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Hanley said he had agreed to run instead for the U. S. Senate because he had been assured that if he did so he could clean up his burdensome financial obligations.

Hanley later denied there ever was any agreement, except that he had been promised a state job if not elected.

Subsequently he was appointed by Dewey as special counsel to the state division of veterans affairs at a salary of $16,000 a year. He will also draw a state pension of $4,200 a year.

Soviet Union Said Preparing To Settle Up Her War Debts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — The Soviet Union reportedly is ready today to reopen long-neglected negotiations for settlement of its $11.4 billion lend-lease debt to the United States.

Reliable sources said that announcement of the forthcoming talks will be made shortly — late this week or early next week.

The decision to resume these long delayed conversations struck diplomatic quarters by surprise. Previous attempts to settle the only large outstanding lend-lease account have bogged down in detail.

A few small warships have been returned. Only one of three icebreakers loaned the Soviet Union has been returned. The other two have been reported stuck in the ice in the Arctic for the last two years.

It was understood that Moscow will send a delegation to Washington to discuss a settlement.

Final Peace Bid Set By UN Group

Cease-Fire Due As First Move

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 4.—The UN group headed by Assembly President Nasrallah Entezam decided today to spell out the principles on which may be based a final peace bid to Communist China.

Encouraged by Warren R. Austin's declaration to the political committee yesterday that the United States is willing to discuss peace with Red China "at the appropriate time and in an appropriate forum," the three-man group decided to continue its official activities indefinitely despite the refusal of the Peiping regime to recognize its existence.

As a first step and with the support of a number of UN delegates, they are meeting today to outline three stages on which a new approach to China might be based:

1. A permanent cease-fire followed by progressive withdrawal of all non-Korean troops.
2. An agreement by all parties in the conflict on UN objectives for an independent and unified Korea.
3. A full discussion affecting relations between UN and Communist China.

Rejection by the Communist Chinese regime of this new peace bid would close all doors to an understanding and bring quick agreement at UN on the application of economic and military sanctions.

A PREPARATORY step in that direction already has been taken by the United States, which consulted last night with other UN members on drafting a resolution to condemn Red China as an aggressor.

The consultations initiated by the United States included the five other UN members who originally sponsored the Western resolution calling on Communist China to get out of Korea. This has been dropped as futile but the same five nations may sponsor the condemnation motion.

They are Britain, Cuba, Ecuador, France and Norway. Any decision on presenting the resolution to the political committee is being held in abeyance pending developments.

The 12-member Asia-Arab bloc headed by Sir Begegal Rai of India also is planning one more try in getting a negotiated settlement with Communist China. This bloc is considering the question of presenting to the political committee a resolution which would offer Red China a conference for solving all Far East issues, including Formosa, Korea and Peiping's admission to United Nations.

The Arab-Asia bloc has a tentative draft resolution proposing that such a conference consist of Russia, the United States, Britain, France, Communist China, Egypt and India.

It is highly doubtful that the assembly would approve such a proposal.

Topcoat Theft Brings Arrest Of Four Men

Four Kentucky men were held in Pickaway County jail Thursday for allegedly stealing a topcoat from a tractor-trailer outfit north of Circleville late Wednesday.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the four men, driving through enroute to Detroit, are accused of having stolen a topcoat from the truck while it was parked at Frank Clay's restaurant near Little Walnut.

The sheriff said the truck driver reported as soon as he missed the coat, later spotted the car in which the men had been riding in Shadeville.

Franklin County authorities took the men into custody and turned them over to local authorities. Radcliff said one of the men was found to be wearing the coat.

The men, ranging in age from 16 to 22-years-old, said they were unable to explain how the coat became the property of the man who was found wearing it.

Utility's Suit Is Continuing

Hearing of a civil suit brought by Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. against Miriam R. Adkins was continuing into the second day Thursday in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The utility firm filed a petition last month seeking a right of way over the Adkins land on Circleville Route 1. The company claims the right of way is wanted for installation of an electric transmission line.

The petition further states that the company was unable to come to an agreement with the defendants as to compensation to be paid for the right of way.

A defective furnace Thursday forced the closing of two offices in Pickaway Courthouse.

The boiler supplying heat to the old portion of the building has been shut off until repairs can be made.

The county commissioners said efforts are being made to make repairs as quickly as possible. Closed for lack of heat were the county auditor and treasurer's office.

Reds Trying To Trap UN

forces had crossed the curving Han's ice surface and attacked the withdrawing UN troops south and west of Seoul.

Schakne's dispatch, received at 3:52 Thursday night, quoted an Eighth Army field headquarters spokesman as saying the enemy was "very aggressive" in following up his seizure of Seoul.

A short distance west of Seoul, where the Han bends northwestward before flowing into the Yellow Sea, Red artillery shelled new UN positions and in this same area an enemy battalion attacked Eighth Army troops.

"In most front-line installations," Schakne's dispatch related, "UN troops are conducting large-scale demolitions in preparation for new withdrawals."

Simultaneous with the enemy's frontal pressure, a 180,000-man Red force was rapidly developing a drive on the key hub of Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul, in an effort to cut across the Eighth Army's three main escape routes.

The front dispatch quoted the Eighth Army spokesman as saying the retreating UN troops were under close pursuit and pressure through Thursday by elements of numerous enemy divisions.

These were listed as six Chinese corps, 15 North Korean divisions, a North Korean brigade and three North Korean regiments. The average Chinese corps contains three divisions.

Below Seoul, thousands of last-minute civilian refugees were streaming south by foot and rail toward the city of Suwon, 20 miles away, along Korea's foremost rail-highway artery leading down to Taegu and Pusan.

The Red invaders' massive flanking effort to slice across the retreating Eighth Army's rear and trap the UN forces was revealed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The UN commander announced in a communique late Thursday that some 120,000 Chinese plus about 60,000 North Korean Red troops were driving down the peninsula's center on the vital pivot of Wonju. He described Wonju as probably the enemy's "next major objective."

"The capture of Wonju," MacArthur gravely declared, "would place the Communist enemy astride the Yoji-Inchon-Suwon axis in position to continue the attempted envelopment of the United Nations forces disposed to the north and west."

The six-way hub of Wonju, 45 miles south of Parallel 38, gives access to a rail-highway route bisecting South Korea and leading west through Yoji, Inchon and Suwon astride the main withdrawal roads below Seoul and the Han river.

Born in Ross County, Aug. 8, 1877, he was the son of Charles and Elizabeth Eppnauer Metzger. March 6, 1898, he married Grace Campbell who preceded him in death.

He married Sarah Tootle Dec. 4, 1924. She survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Earl Metzger of Lakewood and Howard Metzger of Williamsport; a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Cain of Chillicothe; a brother, Ira Metzger of Frankfort; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Browns Chapel at 2 p. m. Saturday with the Rev. Sam Elsea in charge.

Burial will be in the adjoining cemetery.

Friends may call in Fisher Funeral Home, Frankfort, until noon Friday. Then they may call in the residence.

MRS. RANSFORD MURLETTE

Mrs. Lena Murlette, 81, of Stoutsville Route 1, died at 4:55 a. m. Thursday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jay Karshner, Laurelville Route 2. Mrs. Murlette had suffered a stroke five weeks ago.

Mrs. Murlette was born Nov. 2, 1869, in Pickaway Township, daughter of Andrew and Barbara Spangler Hall. She was preceded in death in 1933 by her husband, Ransford.

Surviving are her daughter, Mrs. Jay Karshner; a son, Waldo, at home a sister, Mrs. M. O. Drum, of Stoutsville; three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Sam Elsea officiating. Burial will be in Maple Hill cemetery, Stoutsville.

Friends may call in the funeral home after 4 p. m. Friday.

Sale Of Hogs Brings Suit Seeking $893

A petition seeking a judgment of $893.83 against Ralph Fitzgerald and the David Davies Packing Co. has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Joe O'Brien.

O'Brien's petition claims Fitzgerald sold 60 head of hogs in which each had a one-half interest to the packing firm without the plaintiff's knowledge or consent.

The petition states the plaintiff received a check for $417.51 for 20 head of hogs on Dec. 19, and that this was his first notification of the sale.

Plaintiff claims the check for the remaining 40 head, amounting to $1,679.67, was made out to Fitzgerald. The firm promised to stop payment on the check and to issue two others for $839.83 each to O'Brien and Fitzgerald, was being done, and that he hoped that these actions were halting inflation, but that he had no doubt that some people might differ with him.

The President ordered every branch of the government dealing with industry under the single control of Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson today in a new move to speed rearmament.

Wilson was given overall direction of a new, tightly formed organization to coordinate and control mobilization activities.

THE ACTION, paralleling steps taken to win the production battle of World War II, came as:

1. Rep. Javits, (R) N. Y., introduced a resolution directing the President to clamp controls on prices. He accused the chief executive of "dragging his feet" in combatting inflation and said he would press for prompt action on the legislation.

2. Munitions Board Chairman John D. Small forecast a "drastic" reduction in television production, but expressed "doubt" whether current mobilization will require 20 percent of the auto industry's capacity.

3. The National Production Authority warned it will reduce supplies of leather for gloves and shoes and metal for the manufacture of shaving cream and toothpaste tubes.

4. The Economic Stabilization Agency indicated price controls may be ordered on scrap copper, agreed not to regulate primary copper prices and continued study on the rubber price situation.

Wilson, as director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, was given overall direction, control and coordination of mobilization activities with a tightly knit group under him to carry out the job.

William H. Harrison was made defense production administrator switching from the National Production Authority which he will continue to supervise under the new setup.

In addition, the President created a Defense Mobilization Board with Wilson as chairman and composed the secretaries of Defense, Treasury, Interior, Commerce, Agriculture and Labor, RFC chairman, Federal Reserve Board chairman, and National Security Resources board chairman.

Wilson, former president of General Electric, said present military requirements are "easily within our ability," but declined to predict the effects of rearmament on civilian production.

but failed to do so, the petition claims.

Claiming both defendants have failed to pay him his share of the money for the 40 head of hogs, O'Brien asks for the judgment.

man, off the finance committee, and also omitted Rep. G. D. Tablack (D-Mahoning) from the reference committee, although Tablack headed the reference group last session.

This led Lancione to remark: "Why? Because they supported me for minority leader in the caucus."

"I feel that it is the Republicans' session and they can do what they please. Apparently experience counts every place except in the Ohio Legislature."

THE HOUSE ALSO got into a squabble over adoption of its permanent rules, although they were adopted with two reservations.

Rep. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) filed notice to seek to amend a rule blocking the house from taking a bill away from the reference committee unless that committee has had the bill at least 30 days.

Fess seeks to reinstate Rule 66 of the last session, which permits any five members to petition the house to relieve the committee of a bill. If the house, by majority vote, approved the petition, the bill was brought to the floor for action.

Unemployment Picture Darker Than Usual

The employment picture in Pickaway County darkened a little last week when new claims for unemployment compensation climbed after three weeks of steady decline.

According to a statistical report prepared by the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, new claims for unemployment compensation rose to 34 last week from 28 for the week before.

Continued claims also rose, from 177 for the week before last to 181 last week.

Throughout the state last week new claims totalled 10,645, a jump of 3,954 over the 6,691 filed the week before last. Continued claims, on the other hand, dropped from 34,732 for the week before last to last week's 34,430.

Inhalator Aids Local Woman

Circleville firemen were called at about 4:55 p. m. Wednesday to give emergency inhalator treatment to a South Scioto street woman.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said oxygen was given to Mrs. Eva Hamp, 620 South Scioto street, who apparently had suffered a stroke.

Dr. Lloyd Jonnes said the woman was in "pretty good" condition following treatment.

Williamsport School Closed

Williamsport schools boys and girls are receiving an extended holiday vacation this week because of no heat.

The Williamsport school has been closed for this week while a new boiler is being installed.

County Superintendent George McDowell said the furnace job is being completed and school probably will begin again Monday.

Building Permits Here Total 206

Records in the city auditor's office show that 206 building permits were issued in Circleville in 1950, bringing $423 in fees into the city coffers.

A building permit has been issued by Circleville planning and zoning commission to Mrs. William A. Goeller of 634 South Court street to replace a porch. Cost was estimated at $400.

Motor Club Is Being Formed Here

Joe Brink Named Local Director

Motor Club of America (MCA), with headquarters in Columbus, has announced the official opening of its affiliated branch-office in Circleville. The local club will be known as the "Pickaway Motor Club" and will be managed by local personnel.

Joe Brink, who has been a resident of Pickaway County for 40 years and who is now the local deputy registrar for the Ohio Motor Vehicle License Bureau, will manage the new motor club's operations.

The local club will conduct its services for the motorists of Pickaway County from the location now occupied by the license bureau in the basement of Pickaway courthouse.

Brink said the Pickaway Motor Club will offer all of the 19 service benefits that MCA conducts nationally and will function exclusively for the motorists of Pickaway County. The complete Motor Club service will be operated by key service stations and car dealers within the county and will make available locally all Motor Club benefits, he said.

"THE 19 SERVICES will function for the club member every hour of the day and night and will protect and serve the Pickaway County motorist nationally as well as within the county," Brink explained. He added:

"MCA and its affiliate, the Pickaway Motor Club, is truly a 'town and country' club for all motorists regardless of age or model of car driven. Unlike most other such clubs, the Pickaway Motor Club was established to

Looking Ahead

By George Benso,
President
Harding College

Our college church had as a guest speaker recently a successful business man from California. He preached a grand sermon, practical down-to-earth Christianity. The 1,200 people in his audience were aroused, stimulated; they responded warmly. Almost everyone moved down the aisles to congratulate him.

A fellow townsman of mine did so, then worked his way through the crowd to where I stood.

"What we need in this country," he said emphatically, "is more business men preaching!"

Our visitor from California obviously "reached" an unusually large percentage of his audience. A primary reason was that everyone in the church auditorium knew the Christian pattern of his life. It gave his message potent authority. Though he is an extremely busy business executive, he is nevertheless also a regular (non-salaried) minister for his church in California—has been for 10 years. That is his avocation. The sincerity of his words from the pulpit commands the highest respect.

BUSINESS MEN who are so moved usually make good preachers. It isn't suggested that business men replace the professional preachers. But it is suggested that the individuals themselves would gain and so would the churches if more business men occasionally filled more church pulpits. The shoe is on the other foot too: professional preachers would be better preachers and their congregations would be better served if more of them got better acquainted with the practical problems of business and industry—at first hand.

Perhaps there has already begun to be an awakening to the need for closer harmony and understanding between church workers and the people who are responsible for the progress of American capitalism, the material welfare of the nation.

Robert Wilson, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said recently: "I believe it is the duty of business men—and a duty they owe both to the church and to business—to take a more active part in church affairs."

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York City, responded by admonishing the clergy to speak up in support of capitalism. "As a Christian minister," he says in a Readers Digest article, "I want to do all I can to make capitalism more Christian. But before I join the advocates of some other system, I want to know how large a place the church and its teachings would have and how well our Christian idea of man and our hope for his progress would fare."

DR. PEALE points to socialistic writings and utterances of some clergymen leaders and says: "I believe Christianity has a stake in the survival of capitalism. I believe Christianity grows when the church does. That is why I want the kind of society which encourages the growth of all churches. Fascism, Communism, Socialism, each in its own way, put the state where Christianity puts the person. The state is everything, does everything. As the state enlarges, the church inevitably diminishes."

Sometimes clergymen who haven't had a first hand acquaintance with the operation of America's profit-motive capitalism become the unwitting dupes of the Socialists or Communists or other political planners. The utopian schemes always offer glittering promises for the "masses" and clergymen, naturally idealistic, are drawn in on behalf of the "Have Nots."

The churchman who is uninformed in his economics and history may be attracted to any system that promises "a better break" for the "common man." Accustomed to dealing with honest men, they are sometimes easily misled by advocates of Socialism who deal in half-truths and falsehoods.

Actually every fact in human history demands a harmonizing teamwork between the church people in America and American business. Both have depended upon freedom, both are pillars in the strength of our freedom, and only with freedom can either of them survive. Our Founding Fathers, I believe, followed the highest type of calling when they set out for this new world to establish a freedom for man's mind and body and heart—to go with the God-given freedom of the soul. It is the sacred duty of all of us, working together, to preserve it.

Livestock Yard Pays Bill Twice

Theft Cases Are Settled

A Cincinnati livestock yard has discovered that Pickaway County sheep—especially those sold by thieves are expensive articles.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said that the stockyard paid thieves a total of $1,255.99 for two loads of sheep which had been stolen from Pickaway County farms.

In fact, the Queen City yard made doubly sure that the sheep were theirs—by paying double for the two loads.

Sheriff Radcliff said the stockyard paid the thieves on first receipt of the two loads. Now they must pay again, this time to the owners.

The sheep in question were stolen earlier this year from the Fred Call and Ray Harden farms in Monroe Township. A number of men are awaiting grand jury action upon accusations of livestock thefts in connection with the case.

SHERIFF RADCLIFF added a warning to other stock dealers so that they may give themselves protection from the same fate.

Radcliff quoted two Ohio motor vehicle laws, one of which is directly applicable. In effect they are:

Any person, firm, corporation or partnership regularly receiving or dealing in livestock, fowls, grain, seeds or wool shall keep a record of all transactions. They shall obtain the name and address of seller, the name and license number of the vehicle making the delivery.

"Anyone who doesn't do that, or who willfully keeps a false record or who fails to present the records on demand

Blue Cross Plan Signup Booked For Next Week

Jan. 10, 11 and 12 will be Blue Cross days in Pickaway County.

Ralph W. Jordan, executive vice-president of Central Hospital Service, the Blue Cross plan for this area, in announcing the annual community enrollment dates pointed out that the drive is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Blue Cross plan has been endorsed by the Pickaway County Medical Society. Enrollment headquarters will be at Kochheiser hardware store.

The Pickaway County Blue Cross campaign is conducted annually so the residents of the county will have the opportunity to peace officers can be penalized," Radcliff said.

Penalty for violation of the section is not less than $10 nor more than $500.

Other section quoted by the sheriff pertained to drivers, who are required to furnish police officers with information of the contents of their vehicles on demand.

In addition, the driver is required to state the destination of his load and the probable buyer's name.

Penalty for failing to obey that section is a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50 or imprisonment for not less than 30 days nor more than six months or both.

IN 7 WEEKS—LOST 50 LBS. I Am No Longer Short of Breath

"Thanks to Renel Concentrate I have lost 50 lbs. in weight, and am no longer troubled with being short of breath," writes Mrs. H. Thomas, R. 1, South Point, Ohio. "The day I started taking Renel I weighed 210 lbs. In 7 weeks I am down to 160 lbs. I did not have to go hungry to lose weight. Thanks again for Renel Concentrate."

Thousands of others have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Renel Concentrate. Pour this to enroll in this voluntary plan of pre-paid hospital care.

The purpose of the enrollment period is to provide for all self-employed persons, including railroad employees and farmers, and all people who work where there are less than five in an employed group, such as a small retail store, the opportunity to become members. This may be done by completing an application at enrollment headquarters.

FOR THE FIRST time individuals employed by a company that does not make payroll deduction for Blue Cross are eligible for membership in Blue Cross under the limited non-group contract. Applicants for the plan must be under the age of 65. The limited contract does not cover maternity and has a six-month waiting period for tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy.

Groups of five or more employees may form Blue Cross groups at any time on a payroll deduction basis. Should an employee of a group leave his place of employment, he may retain his Blue Cross membership. Further information regarding group formations may be obtained at enrollment headquarters.

Members on a direct billing basis may pay their dues at Circleville First National bank or Ashville Banking Co.

Joe Bell, Jaycee president, pointed out that this will be the only Pickaway County Blue Cross enrollment this year.

Store Sales Up 14 Pct.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported that department store sales in the east increased 14 percent in the week ended Dec. 30 over the same week last year.

In the comparable week of 1949, sales had dropped five percent below the preceding year. Store officials attributed the rise last week to higher prices; some spill-over from holiday shopping; and strong Christmas promotions.

ECA Expected To Buy Arms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally, (D) Tex., said today that some economic aid to Free Europe probably will have to be diverted this year to military assistance.

Connally told newsmen that the Economic Cooperation Administration Act probably will have to be amended so that some of the money can go for the arming of Free Europe.

VA Officials Are Hit For Special Deals

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — A House committee charged today that some Veterans Administration officials accepted gifts and loans from operators of training schools for veterans.

The committee noted, however, that the VA has not yet had a chance to answer the charges.

The group, headed by Rep. Teague, (D) Texas, recommended new laws to curb "certain irregularities" by VA personnel.

In its final report for the 81st Congress, the committee pointedly mentioned:

The acceptance of gifts and loans by VA personnel from training school owners and operators.

The fact that some VA officials owned an interest in training schools, and at least in one instance, actually managed the affairs of such a school while still functioning in their VA positions.

The report listed these specific instances of "irregular practices" by VA personnel:

1. A chief of training received $1,000 and a 1946 Buick from a school operator.

2. ONE EMPLOYEE received five loans totaling about $5,090 from school operators. He had paid back some of the loans but one $1,200 loan was not secured by a note.

3. Another received two $4,000 loans from the owners of a 17-school chain, while still another received two $1,000 loans and another received a total of $1,200 in loans from school operators.

4. Two VA officials owned a one-third interest in a trade school and negotiated the affairs of the school.

5. One VA employee surveyed a school, recommended approval of it, then resigned to operate the school.

6. Some 56 schools in Texas were owned or operated by former VA employees.

Want to make a swell deal?

We'll put it to you straight.

How would you like to trade in your present car for the most successful Buick ever built — and give your budget a really easy time in the bargain?

Right now is a smart time to make a trade—the time when you can get the most for your present car.

Just figure what such a deal gives you.

It gives you not just a new car to replace your worn one for the cold weather ahead—but a trim, taut, sturdy 1950 Buick that's a lulu for looks and a honey in action.

It gives you thrilling, straight-eight Fireball power—the Buick dream ride of coil springs on all four wheels—the room and comfort and superb handling ease that are part and parcel of every Buick.

And it gives you a whale of a wonderful buy.

For on a price-per-pound basis, no other cars of equal size, room and power can touch a Buick SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—one reason why more than 200,000 owners of other cars changed to Buicks in the past year.

So if you want to make a swell deal for one of these great '50 Buicks, come in and see us right away. Just a few of these record-breaking models are on hand—which means it's probably this week or never.

HONG KONG
BRITISH commercial colony of Hong Kong, just off the coast of southern China, is reported to be jittery and wondering when, not if, the communists will gobble them up. Since this island is separated from the mainland by a narrow channel, it is indefensible against a large force, as the Japs proved in 1941.

British diplomatic recognition of the Chinese communist government on January 5, 1950, was supposed to help save Hong Kong.
But the Chinese Reds haven't even said
"Thank you" to London.

Trade through Hong Kong made a record high in 1950. The United States, evidently finding that some of it included strategic materials leaking to the reds in one way or another, recently placed a temporary embargo on exports to Hong Kong.
The Chinese communists have retaliated by suspending the export of certain key commodities from the Chinese mainland.
The Hong-kongese, both British and Chinese, do not like that.

The communists might very well gain prestige with all Chinese if the communist armies made Hong Kong a part of China again. The British acquired the island as one of the spoils of the Opium war with China in 1840-41. The 99-year lease of the adjoining mainland, acquired by the British in 1899, helped to stimulate anti-foreignism in China for many years.

Americans can be grateful they have no territorial hostage in Asia or Europe to make them crawl and grovel before hateful dictators.

MAO'S FATE
APPARENTLY the only way Dictator
Mao of Red China will profit by his trouble-making course is if communism captures the world. Then he would be a big cog in the wheel unless Moscow purged him. And Moscow would be capable of that.

But the way things are going now Mao is losing potential friends. Nehru of India, who tried hard to bring Red China into the respectable society of nations, is deeply offended by the Red invasion of Tibet. He thinks now that India may be compelled to fight China.

Britain was the leading backer of United Nations recognition of Red China and its admission to membership. Britain was even all set to help turn Formosa over to Mao. But Mao's course has made the British wary. Tito of Yugoslavia would have been Mao's friend but now he's more in the mood to help the West.

American itself is in a mood of total resistance to Red Chinese leaders as they spread their propaganda against this country, the best friend China ever had.

But Mao, with all his red chips on Moscow, will go up or down with the Soviet regime. Judging by history, he will go down, just as Napoleon, Kaiser Bill, Hitler, Mussolini, Tojo and other dictators have.

Inside WASHINGTON
MARCH OF EVENTS

U. S. Leaders Worried | United States Foresees
Over Apprehension Trend | Failure of Any "Deal"

WASHINGTON—United States officials frankly are worried by a revival among war-weary Europeans for appeasement with the Communists in the Far East. The United States is convinced that any appeasement today would only bring the invasion of Europe by Red armies just so much the sooner.

With the Chinese Communist forces now pouring into Korea capable of being the spark to set off World War III, the Europeans are represented as wanting the United Nations to make a deal with Red China on Formosa, Korea and membership in the UN.

The United States, on the other hand, does not believe that any "deal" with Red China will hold water until the Reds are driven out of Korea and back into China.

The United States also believes that a UN deal with the Reds would not be worth the paper on which it is written and in the long run would make the UN as weak as the late League of Nations.

DRAFT REJECTIONS—Army officials say that some of the public criticism of the high rate of draft rejections fails to take into account the selective system under which the draft is conducted.

For instance, 15 per cent of prospective draftees are rejected for failure to pass an intelligence test. This test measures "ability to learn" and generally speaking more education does not improve the grade.

Moreover, for reasons of selection, the test is deliberately designed

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days

On July 8, an estimated 116,000 regular Chinese Communist troops were stationed in Manchuria. By Aug. 8, this number had been increased to 217,000; by Aug. 30, to 246,000. After Sept. 21, Lin Piao's army, arriving from South China, and with other contingents, brought the Chinese Communist troops in Manchuria up to 850,000.

These dates are important because, if you will recall, throughout this period the American people were led to believe that somehow we were going to have a deal with Mao Tze-tung, that British diplomacy would help win Mao away from Russia, and all that was needed was to give Soviet China a seat in the United Nations. Meanwhile they were building up this huge force to fight us.

What made it easy for the Chinese Communists was the immobilization of the Nationalists, their acceding to President Truman's instruction for Chiang Kai-shek to refrain from any military action against Soviet China. This assurance made it possible for Piao's army to return to Manchuria.
Pia's army was reinforced by other Chinese Communist troops not usually associated with him.

When the buildup reached 10 corps of three divisions each, namely the 55th, 57th, 41st, 46th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 42nd, 56th and 45th along the Yalu, with other unidentified divisions along the Tumen, the situation became serious. The potential for a large invasion was present.

The United Nations forces were facing a new force with which only the highest government levels could have contact. When these 30 divisions and the waves of divisions behind them began to move like a horde across the Yalu into Korea, Gen.
Douglas MacArthur, as a military commander, was forced, by his instructions, to stand still until they were out of Manchuria.
He could use no weapons at his disposal to keep on the other side of the Yalu. He could only fight them after they had crossed from Manchuria into Korea. Never had a commander faced a more harassing situation.

From all this the conclusion is inevitable that the Chinese Communists had not had enough troops in Manchuria in June and July to intervene in the Korean situation;
that they were able to build up their forces because they were assured by the United States, directly, indirectly or by inference, that Nationalist China would remain immobilized by the U. S. 7th Fleet and by an agreement between Chiang and President Truman.

Once Soviet China was convinced that this would hold, it moved Piao's army from South China to Manchuria, added other units to it, thus producing an overwhelming force against MacArthur.

Throughout this period, Chiang offered his services either for participation in Korea or for guerrilla warfare. This, Washington rejected on the ground that it would bring Soviet China into the war. After Soviet China took over the war, the United States continued to reject Chiang's services, although his participation would have forced Soviet China to withdraw troops from Manchuria for service in South China.

DIET AND HEALTH
Alcoholic Is a Sick Person

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
ALCOHOLISM is one of the greatest problems in the United States today. Its magnitude is evidenced by the fact that by conservative medical estimate there are at least three-fourths of a million people in the country today who use alcohol to excess.

According to modern medical opinion, these people are sick to begin with and become sicker as their dependence on alcohol grows. Moreover, the alcohol itself brings on other ailments, both mental and physical, when used to excess over long periods of time.

Perhaps the largest group of persons, about one-half of those who drink too much, do so because of some underlying mental physical illness. A second smaller group may have some disturbance of the body chemistry. The third group is made up of persons who are well adjusted but, under adverse situations, resort to drinking of an irregular nature.
These persons usually start out as social drinkers—that is, they take a drink on occasion. However, because of difficult situations in their work or homes, they pass through a stage of excessive drinking to the point where they become chronic alcoholics.

An alcoholic is a sick person and requires sympathetic medical treatment and understanding. Of course, if the patient is physically sick, he needs treatment, and such treatment should be adequate and carried out vigorously.

One thing is certain in the treatment of alcoholism, and that is that complete abstinence is necessary.

These persons must be taught to recognize just what their capacities for work are, and to act within those capacities and limitations, rather than to try to escape their difficult situations through drinking. The development of new pursuits, habits and activities is frequently helpful.

Treatment with drugs in general is not of a great deal of value in so far as is known at present, although preparations, such as extracts from the adrenal glands, have been tried with good results
in some cases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
B. R.: Does it mean a person is insane if his doctor sends him

have to be insane to take electri-

Answer: A visit to a psychologist does not mean that the person is insane.

Shock treatments are at times prescribed for certain types of mental disturbances. Not all who take these shock treatments are actually insane.

Christmas Holidays
by SARAH-ELIZABETH RODGER

CHAPTER NINE
AT SEVEN in the morning
Donna proper her long, slim body up in the center of the big bed and proceeded to think.

What was there about that wistful little match-girl, Marcia Cram, which roused her to anger? She tried to be logical about it:

The girl had obviously attracted Karl. But Donna, herself, had turned Karl down over a year ago to marry Guido (though the decision had been almost a coin-toss), and there was certainly no reason to resent Miss Cram's having a whirl with her old flame.

Face it, Marcia was beautiful.
Donna pondered that one hard, and decided that on the whole she liked good-looking people around her;
her own looks could stand the competition.

There was Timothy Greenough, whom Donna had never seen before. He was in love with Marcia;
any observer could chalk that down as a fact. He was also a rather disapproving young man.
"Not my type," thought Donna hastily, "not fun; he wouldn't know the rules; he'd never bother to be subtle. Oh, heavens," she thought disgustedly, "if he were twice as lean and handsome, I still wouldn't want him!"

So, in the final analysis, there was no reason either to hate or to envy Miss Cram! Unless—a thin blade of suspicion wedged itself into Donna's consciousness—she envied Marcia only because no man would ever marry her for her money? She thrust that into the discard. It didn't matter, especially, why men chose women in marriage; their behavior later was the important thing, and Donna could regulate that pretty well.
What she couldn't regulate was her own restlessness. She tired of any man before he tired of her.

"I'll have to watch this gal, find out what makes her tick," she thought in summation. She would get up a party for lunch at the restaurant on the mountaintop.

Then, suddenly, she remembered with a pang why she was there.
It was Christmas. The luncheon—everything—must wait.

She jumped out of bed and into her bath. "He'll be here any minute," she thought, with a curious impersonal amazement. "The only male creature in the world I'm shy with, afraid of, impressed by.
Good heavens, how is it possible that I, Donna Ransome, have a twelve-year-old son!"

Tim was giving Marcia a lesson in stem turns on the highest part of the nursery hill. She was an apt beginner, but it would take time to train her for the mountain.

"A little more relaxed in the knees," he told her patiently. "Let's take it again."

"I'll have you on the mountain in a matter of days," he said, proud of her. And he asked himself secretly, "Why isn't she like that in her emotional responses?"

When it was time to go in for lunch, they saw Donna Ransome crossing the lobby with a tall, tow-headed youngster whose freckles marched thickly across his nose.

The Princess said "Hi!" to their cheerful good-mornings and, stopping abruptly, gave a little pat to the boy's shoulder: "This is my son, Toby," she announced in a queer, breathless voice.

"Hello, Toby," Tim showed no surprise, but Marcia felt her own must stand out blatantly in her face. It was a moment before she could absorb the astounding fact that Donna Ransome was the mother of this child.

Toby had a pleasant, open face vaguely reminiscent of Donna's except for the freckles. He shot out a lanky paw to shake hands with his mother's friends.

"You're going to be a big fellow," said Tim. "I had the same kind of hands at your age."

Toby looked up at Tim's six feet two inches with pleasurable anticipation.

"Do you want to see my fountain pen?" He drew it from the pocket of his windbreaker. "I have a new camera, too."

"Good. Maybe we can take some skiing shots on top the mountain some day." Tim's face showed how much he liked Toby.

At lunch, Marcia and Tim had an unobstructed view of the Prince and Princess's table for three.
The boy and his mother carried on a spasmodic conversation, while Guido looked withdrawn and sulky.

"Who do you suppose his father is?" murmured Marcia. "I don't believe I ever heard she was married as long ago as that. It couldn't have been the last husband, the one before the Prince," she said, confused, "because she married him only seven or eight years ago.
I remember reading all about it when I was going to school."

"You'd have been better off studying your Latin," said Tim dryly.

"He was Mark Allison, the polo player. Their pictures were in the papers practically every day."

"There was someone before that, you can bet. Toby is twelve if I know children." Tim looked sober.
"I like him. I'd think he deserves a better stepfather than Guido."

They had coffee in the lounge;
then Tim asked if she was rested enough to stay again.

They put in a strenuous afternoon, during which Marcia executed her turns with a determination that made Tim whistle.

"I may be a fool, but you're going up the mountain tomorrow," he told her as the sun slipped lower in the sky. "We'll come down by easy stages. You're good, Marcia. I never saw a beginner who caught on so fast. And now a hot bath for you, then a nap before time to dress for dinner."

She stepped into the elevator cage and disappeared upward. His face lifted to watch until she was gone from view. As he turned around, Toby was at his side.

"Hi there, old man," he said,
hand on the child's skinny, bigboned shoulder. "What are you doing with yourself?"

"Nothing." Toby's eyes were faintly expectant. "What are you you?"

"Not a thing. Like to play a little pingpong in the game-room?"

"You bet!"

The youngster was surprisingly adept with his shots and gave Tim a better game than he had expected.

"Do you like school?" Tim asked him over the soft drinks he had ordered for them.

"Oh, sure. I didn't at first, the classes are in French and I didn't understand a word of it, but now it makes sense mostly. Do you like French?"

"I'm glad I speak it," said Tim.
"I need three languages for my job."

"What's your job?" Toby's eagerness suggested to Tim that the kid was starved for male companionship.

"I suppose you might call me a social worker," he answered Toby.
"I try to get displaced persons into some country they can call their own. Some of them still live in refugee camps. It's quite a job," he commented. "My headquarters are in Geneva, but I go to Germany often, and occasionally to other European countries."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The budget message goes to Congress Jan. 15. It looks now like billions for defense and 24 cents for aspirin.

The President will deliver his State-of-the-Union Message in person, but the budget will be carried in by eight men—all weight lifters.

Copies will be available from the Public Printer and they make a nice addition to the night table. People who can't sleep won't want to after they get past the first chapter.

The nice thing about the national budget is that, unlike the family budget, they first decide what they want then they get the money for it.

In our house we have to take the money available and decide what we can get with it. We like the other way better and trust that the government eventually will allow us to borrow the system.

Anyway with three messages coming up, pen pals need not expect to hear from Washington for several more days.

The use of Christmas wreaths is believed to be traceable to the pagan custom of decorating buildings and places of worship at the feast which took place at the same time as our Christmas.

Gala, Serious New Year's Eve Parties Held By Various Groups Here

Private Affairs Noted In Homes

New Year's eve in Circleville was just as gay as in the larger cities. A score of parties to usher in the New Year were given. Circleville Elks lodge's breakfast dance was perhaps the largest. More than 100 persons arrived for the affair which started at 12:01 a. m. Monday. The hall was transformed by a ceiling of green and white streamers centered with a bunch of mistletoe and decorated with vari-colored balloons.

Couples danced to the music of Mel-O-Tones orchestra which featured several Ted Lewis favorites including "When My Baby Smiles At Me."

Lewis, who is a member of Circleville BPOE, called from New York City to wish fellow Elks and their ladies "a Happy New Year."

At the beginning of the dance, favors which included, hats, balloons, whistles and noisemakers were tossed from the balcony. Breakfast was served at 3 a. m. Dancing continued until 4. Art Marshall was chairman of dance arrangements. He was assisted by Sterling Poling, Wilford Timmons and Garold Crites.

Among the parties given preceding the dance was that of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Camp who held open house from 9 p. m. until midnight. Candles and the glow of an open fire provided light for the 50 guests who were received during the evening.

The dining table with its crystal punch bowl was banked with evergreen and lighted by candles of red and new blue. Refreshments followed the red and green color scheme of the holiday season.

Another open house was hosted by Bill Richards in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmon Richards of Circleville Route 4. Holiday decorations were used throughout the house. The buffet table from which supper was served was centered with poinsettias and lighted with white candles.

Guests arrived at 10 p. m. and departed after a bacon and egg breakfast served at 4 a. m. New Year's morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eschelman were hosts to members of the dinner club following the meal served in Pickaway Arms.

Other pre-dance parties included those of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newhouse and Miss Margaret Boggs.

A watch party striking a serious note on New Year's eve was that given by Pickaway Charge Youth Fellowship which includes organizations of young people from East Ringgold, Morris, Pontius and Dresbach Evangelical United Brethren churches.

The affair was held in Circleville First EUB Service Center. Retiring president Paul David Kraft conducted the business session at which new officers were elected.

They are Marcella Seitz, president; Ray Strawser, vice-president; Vivian Goodman, secretary-treasurer; Nancy Spangler, assistant secretary-treasurer; Barbara England, chorister; Marvina Spangler, assistant chorister; Betty Glitt, pianist; Mary Frances Goodman, assistant pianist; Max Spangler, reporter; Olive Spangler, assistant reporter.

Lutheran chimes from across the street were rung at midnight.

just as the candle light recession filed out of the door at the watch party New Year's eve given in the Presbyterian church.

Guest organizations were the youth groups from First Methodist, First Evangelical United Brethren and Calvary Evangelical United Brethren churches.

A recreational hour was directed by Merle Thomas, associate county agent. Later a motion picture was presented, "Fire Upon the Earth." The film showed the organization of the Protestant church and the formation of its different branches.

Refreshments were served buffet style with Mrs. Walter Downing in charge of arrangements. At 11 p. m. the 65 young people went into the sanctuary for the New Year's eve candlelight service.

Buskirk-Brinker Marriage Read In Springfield

The wedding of Miss Beverly Jane Buskirk and John Milton Brinker took place Saturday at an informal ceremony held in Covenant Presbyterian church, Springfield.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Don't suffer longer with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Fire Department's 1950 Not All Smoke, Flames

Circleville fire department had a busy time in 1950, but it wasn't all smoke and flames.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise has reported to city council that his department answered 168 calls last year, of which 41 were rural.

He estimated city fire losses at $8,000. No estimate on rural loss was made. Also included in the 168 calls were:

1. A plea to remove a cat from a utility pole. Chief Wise said actual removal was accomplished by employees of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. after it was discovered the cat was perched above high tension wires.

2. A call to come to the aid of a stuck washing machine. The chief said the machine stuck from an overload of clothes, and the motor began smoking. The difficulty was remedied by pulling the electric plug and working the motor backward by hand.

3. A REQUEST to remove a swarm of bees from a rural home. Wise explained the bees had established a home under the siding of the house and acquired the habit of buzzing unpleasantly about the heads of persons entering or leaving the house.

4. A call to stop a water leak in a house. Remedy was easy, the chief said. The water was shut off.

5. Six inhalator calls.

6. Three calls to remove leaky refrigerators.

7. Two calls for hot electric wires.

8. Three calls to unlock doors.

9. Thirty-one auto fires.

10. One call to rescue a man from a caved in ditch. The accident took place during construction of Evans-Markley garage on North Court street last June. Man rescued was Thad Hill, 64, of Stoutsville.

The fire department was responsible for saving another life last summer when firemen extricated an auto racing driver from an overturned and burning racer on Pickaway Fairgrounds race track.

Not included in his report to council, but still tickling the memory of Chief Wise was a request last summer for permission to burn down a house.

After checking into all angles of the matter and learning that the house was not insured and was to be burned to make room for a better structure, the chief gave the necessary permission. Owner of the house, however, was requested to notify all his neighbors of his intent to insure against unnecessary calls being sent to the fire department.

48 Are Unhurt As Airliner Falls In Takeoff

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 - A non-scheduled airliner trying to take off from Chicago Municipal Airport early today crashed through a boundary fence into a haystack and caught fire, but the 45 passengers and three crew members aboard escaped.

Flames were licking at the fuselage of the twin-engine C-46 operated by Monarch Air Service as the stewardess, pretty, blonde Thelma Dennis, 21, of Miami, opened the door and directed the passengers out.

Two soldiers leaped out first and helped other passengers to the ground.

The pilot, co-pilot and one passenger, Clarence Hyde of Marton, N. J., were reported treated for minor injuries. The pilot was identified as Capt. Marvin Staddon, 40, of Maybrook, N. J. and the co-pilot as Arthur Howarth, 37, of Miami.

The plane was bound for Newark, N. J., from Chicago. Most of the passengers had flown to Chicago from the West Coast and changed planes to continue the flight east.

144 Signed-Up Volunteers Expected For Blood Drive

The Bloodmobile is scheduled to arrive in Circleville Jan. 26. By that date a local recruiting group working under Pickaway County Red Cross chapter expects to have enough blood donors lined up to more than meet the 144-pint quota.

The group had an organizational meeting Tuesday night, assigning recruiting tasks to committee heads. Paul Hang and Charles Weidinger are co-chairmen of the group.

Object of the group is to obtain signatures of blood donors on donor cards. Another meeting has been set for Jan. 15 to obtain a preliminary report on the number of donor cards signed.

Weidinger said that confirmation cards will be mailed out to prospective donors giving the hour they should appear at the Bloodmobile. He said the hours will be arranged so that there will be no long waiting line of donors.

HE ADDED THAT about 12 volunteer speakers have agreed to present talks on the blood program to various clubs and groups throughout Pickaway County during the blood drive.

Present at the organizational meeting Tuesday was Mrs. Marie C. Ryan, blood program field representative for the Columbus district ARC.

Mrs. Ryan told the group that considering the energy with which the problem of obtaining blood donors was being tackled, there seemed little doubt but what the program would be a success.

She added that the blood quota probably will be doubled before the end of 1951.

In December the quota for processing blood into plasma for the Ohio area was 1,500 pints. This month the quota increased to 1,800 pints.

Reason for the expected quota increase in 1951 is that blood will have to be supplied not only for

Mexico Seeks Larger Navy

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 4 — The Mexican government is negotiating today for the acquisition of United States war vessels.

Acting Navy Secretary Alberto J. Pawling revealed the possibility of getting delivery of seven corvettes in 1951 is being discussed.

Mexico's navy presently consists of one transport, three gunboats, three frigates, three corvettes, seven coast guard patrol boats and various other small craft.

"I Like Substantial Savings ... That's Why I Shop at A&P Where I Save Money On My Total Food Bill, Rather Than on Just A Few 'Specials'!"

Customers' Corner

As you know, A&P has led the way in seeing that every item you purchase has the price marked on it. Do you look for these price markings and compare them with the prices listed on your cash register receipt?

If we ever fail to price-mark an item, or make a mistake in the price charged, the men and women in your A&P want to know about it. And if you can suggest any way in which we can make our price-marking system serve you better, please let us know. Please write:

WEST COAST PULLING OUT?

Radical Change In Rose Bowl Setup Being Hinted

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 4—The Pacific Coast Conference was rocked today by the report that the West Coast league future may not send a team as host school to the annual Rose Bowl game in Pasadena.

The bombshell, dropped here yesterday at the annual PCC meeting, came in an announcement from Dr. H. P. Everest, faculty representative for the University of Washington and president of the PCC.

It was part of a lengthy report of a meeting called by the conference to which presidents of the universities, faculty representatives and athletic directors were invited.

The meeting was called because, said Everest, "of the ever-increasing emphasis on collegiate athletic programs and other problems which have been disturbing athletic representatives for a number of years."

Everest said some of these problems were "pressures on winning teams, post season games and added emphasis on Spring football practice."

HE SAID THAT a special meeting will be called after the NCAA meet in Dallas Jan. 11-13 to:

"Reach definite conclusions on possible discontinuance or modification of the Rose Bowl game as far as the Pacific Coast Conference is concerned."

With Everest's momentous announcement the rumors flew in Riverside's Mission Inn where the conference is being held.

One was to the effect that an all-star game between players from the PCC and Big Ten be held instead of the Rose Bowl game, Everest said:

"We have considered the all-star game and should it be agreed to it would in no way detract from 'football's finest hour'—the annual Shrine East-West game in San Francisco."

Another proposal was that the two conference champions meet one week after the season ends. The Washington professor said this also was considered, but again, "no action has been taken."

Everest said that no action would be taken until after the NCAA meetings in Dallas when "the PCC has the advantage of opinions expressed by other members of the NCAA."

Immediate reaction in Southern California to the announcement was that the coast conference was waving the unconditional flag to surrender at the Big Ten.

One grid authority pointed out that the timing of Everest's message could not be worse. He said that with Michigan administering the fifth straight beating to a conference team in the Rose Bowl, it appears as if the coast is saying: "You're just too good for us—we quit."

Oracle Changes Calling Again; Is 'Predicter'

While not showing too much improvement in his selections, the Ashville "predicter" finally has advanced to the rank of "predicter."

An unidentified Ashville sportsfollower opened this year's Pickaway County basketball league season by announcing himself as a "predicter."

After missing three calls in 17 games, not a bad average in itself, the Ashville changed his style to become a "predicter." This week, after having missed five games out of 26 selections, the Ashville has graduated to the use of the name of "predicter." Before the season is out he probably will have it spelled right.

CHIEF DOWNFALL of the Ashville oracle to date has been his underestimating of the Jackson Wildcat basketball team, which has accounted for four of his five misses. His other miss was due to Monroe's Indian basketballers.

However, with an average of 87.6 percent to date, here is the "predicter's" selections for this week's county league encounters:

"Walnut vs. Ashville—the bigger the floor the better. Overconfidence may make it a better game, ASHVILLE."

"New Holland vs. Saltcreek—The home team should take this game in a walk, NEW HOLLAND."

"Atlanta vs. Scioto—Will be close with the home team having advantage. They are a much improved team since the first of the season, ATLANTA."

"Darby vs. Monroe—Shouldn't lose this one, by any means, MONROE."

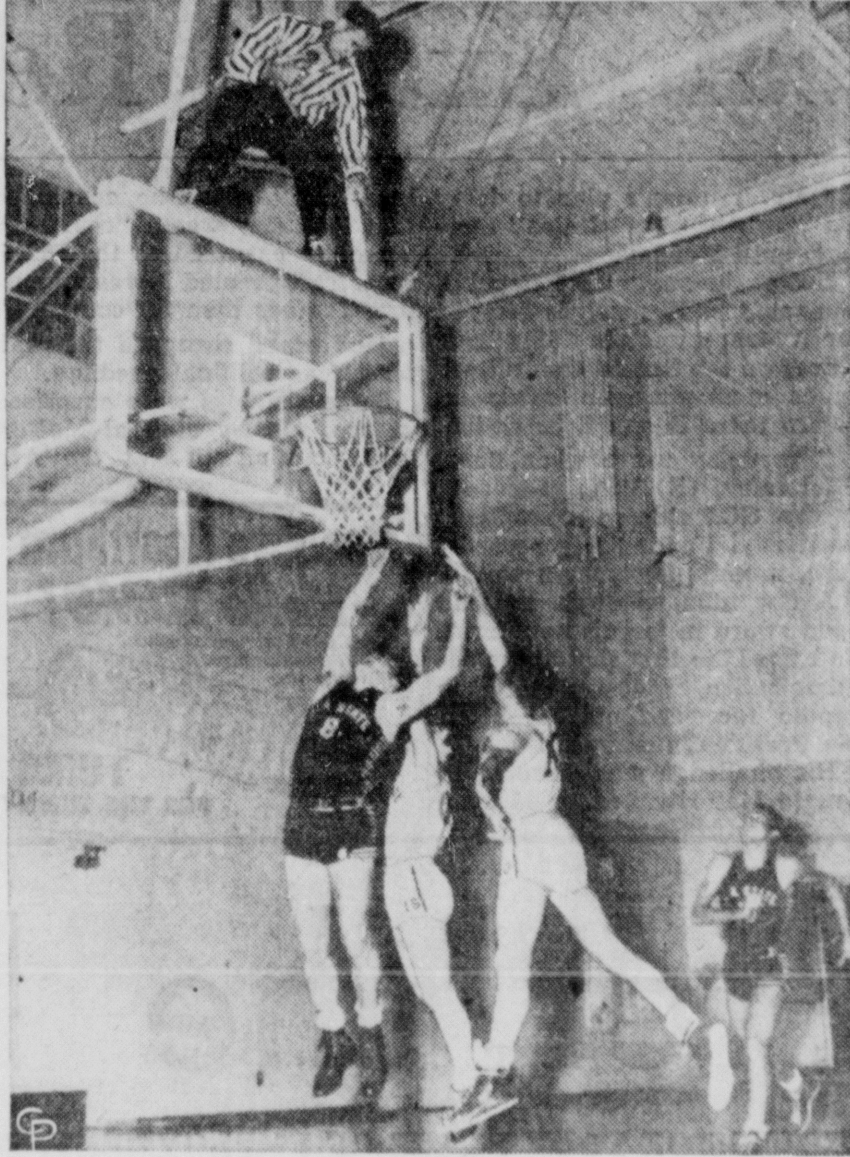

Adelphi Varsity Tops Saltcreek

Saltcreek Township's basketball combine entertained Adelphi in Tarlton gym Wednesday night and won two out of three games.

It was the big test—involving the varsity—which went to Adelphi, 47-37. Adelphi's Weston was high scorer with 18 points. Saltcreek was paced by Maxson who netted nine points.

Saltcreek's reserve team won 32-26 while the grade quintet collected a 36-20 verdict.

Saltcreek school officials reported Thursday that all future "home" games will be played on the Tarlton hardwood.

THERE'S always something new under the sun—and in the sports arena. The latest is this vantage-point perch for a basketball referee. Armed with a "mike," he can watch the complete play and call 'em better. Sax Elliott, former USC player who is now coach at Los Angeles State, devised method and is the gentleman up there. Commission Wants Explanation After Boxer Walks Out In Bout

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 4—The Portland Boxing Commission seeks an official explanation today of why Billy Smith, 173-pound fighter from Oakland, Cal., walked out of the ring in the eighth round of a fight Tuesday night.

After pondering his action for a night and a day, Smith told newsmen it was because he had no battle strategy.

Smith, whose purse of about $1000 has been withheld, had been knocked down by Archie Moore, 182, of Toledo, before he climbed through the ropes, brushed aside the referee's restraining hand and strode to his dressing room. The fight had been scheduled for 10 rounds.

Chairman Ray Smith of the boxing commission said he will propose that the dusky fighter meet Moore again and if the bout is good, the purse be handed over to him. Meantime, Smith is under suspension in Oregon, and the ban is expected to extend to other states affiliated with the National Boxing Association.

SMITH FLOORED Moore in the sixth round of the bout, but the Ohioan came back. In the eighth, Moore knocked Smith to the canvas when the latter turned to protest advice from his corner. Shortly afterward the Oakland man walked out.

In his statement to newsmen, Smith blamed his manager, Jack Andrade.

Smith said: "I was promised a corner strategist before the fight, but none was there. All I had was my manager, who is a good businessman but gets excited, and a second, who is competent in his work but is no strategist."

"I was tense and needed a mental plan, but had no one behind me who knew anything about strategy. Moore had a smart hand in his corner, and I soon realized that I couldn't beat 'em both by myself."

"I had a chance in the sixth (when he knocked Moore down)

but fought myself out. At the close of the round, they threw water all over me and loaded me with smelling salts yelling different things to me all the time."

"I was just about ready to walk out of the ring then, but I decided to stick around a little longer."

"In the eighth, Archie was hurting me and I couldn't hit him. I'm no quitter or coward, but I made up my mind long ago never to become a plug-ugly."

"MAYBE SOME will think I am yellow, but if I were that, I would have stayed down when Moore put me on the canvas."

Smith admitted that he made a fatal mistake when he dropped his guard to protest shouted instructions from his corner.

Older fight fans said the same kind of thing happened 24 years ago in Portland, Russell Dockstader, a Canadian, was socked on the chin by Harry Dillon, a favored heavyweight. Dockstader walked over to his stool, sat down and told the referee:

"I give up. He's a better man."

600-Yard Run Mark Is Tied

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—The indoor track season was under way today with a record-tying 600-yard run already on the books.

Hugo Maiocco, holder of the National AAU record of 1:11.2, tied the world's flat floor record of 1:11.7 in nosing out his former New York university teammate Reggie Pearman last night.

The 600-yard run featured the Metropolitan AAU Open meet in New York.

Dedication Due

ATHENS, Jan. 4—Ohio university will dedicate its new $430,000 natatorium Sunday in a ceremony which will feature an exhibition by members of Ohio State's championship swimming team.

Two Route 4 Men Catch Sailfish In Florida

Two Circleville Route 4 men returned from Florida Monday with a tall fish story and proof to back it up.

They are Forest and Sterley Croman, who, with their wives and a guest, spent Christmas vacation at Riviera Beach near Palm Beach.

The Cromans, father and son, went aboard a chartered boat at the beach last Friday and in a half day of fishing ran up two sailfish pennants.

Forest Croman said that he brought in a seven-foot specimen during the trip, while his father landed one just a little larger.

The larger of the sailfish is being mounted in Florida and will be shipped up here in about two months, Croman said. The men brought back cans of smoked sailfish to prove their fishing tale.

County's First Grader Physical Exam Results Revealed

399 Pupils Have 436 Defects

Bad Teeth, Tonsils Top Medic's List

Pickaway County first grade boys and girls were found to average more than one physical defect per person in a recent medical exam.

The physical examination was given last Fall by County Health Commissioner Dr. A. D. Blackburn and County Health Nurse Mrs. Helen Pickens.

According to the report, a total of 399 first grade girls and boys were examined in the program and a total of 436 defects were discovered.

"Most of these defects were of a minor nature," Dr. Blackburn explained. "The majority of defects were bad teeth or tonsils."

The doctor explained that the object of the exam of first graders in the 17 county system schools was to find defects which might exist and to notify the parents so that the defects may be corrected.

MRS. PICKENS is to make a return trip to the schools this Winter as a followup program to see whether corrections have been made or treatments given.

Most common defect found in the exam was bad teeth, Dr. Blackburn said. A total of 131 children had decayed teeth.

"This is not such a serious matter in six-year-old children," the doctor added, "since most of them are baby teeth."

"An effort should be made to save the tooth where a six-year molar is found decayed, however, since that is a permanent tooth."

Next high on the list with 84

defects found were diseased or enlarged tonsils.

"These seem to be common in small children," Blackburn said. "Some we discovered were not too bad, but others would be classed as emergency cases."

Vision faults accounted for 82 of the defects, while another 23 youngsters suffered eye trouble. Only four youngsters of the 399 examined were fitted with glasses.

Parents of the children whose eyes were found to be bad were advised to have their children visit a specialist.

"MANY OF THE children who spent two years in the same grade are found to have either poor vision or bad tonsils," the doctor pointed out.

A total of 48 youngsters had their tonsils out at the time of the exam.

Defective speech accounted for 57 of the defects uncovered in the test by the doctor and his nurse.

"We have observed that the majority of these children will overcome this defect during their first year in school," advised the commissioner.

ONLY TWO HEART ailment cases were discovered during the test and only two lung cases. Both lung cases were bronchial asthma.

A total of 27 boys and girls were found to have glandular enlargements in the test, most of which were the cervical glands.

Hearing defects totalled 20 cases, while one orthopedic case and one nervous disease case were uncovered.

"We probably would have been able to discover more nervous disease cases of one form or another if we had more time," the doctor said.

In conjunction with the first grade exam, the doctor and Mrs. Pickens also examined nearly 400 athletes for the schools' athletic programs.

"We found the boys in pretty good shape physically," Blackburn said. "We looked primarily

GOP Raps Delay By Truman, But It Stalls, Too

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Senate Republican leaders, re-installed by a unanimous vote, clamored today for a quick start of congressional work and an immediate accounting from President Truman.

Sen. Wherry, (R) Neb., GOP floor leader, joined Policy Chairman Taft, (R) Ohio, in criticizing

Mr. Truman's plan to delay his "State-of-the-Union" message until Monday.

But at the same time Republican senators themselves delayed for at least a week in filling their places on the Senate committees which must consider legislation before there is any floor action.

The delay arose when Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., proposed a new GOP rule on committee seniority. Under party procedure, it must lay over a week. A few minutes after he had been sworn in for his new term, Taft fired the first shot at the administration by objecting to the Senate recessing until it hears the President's message.

His challenge was directed at Senate Majority Leader McFarland, (D) Ariz., who contended that the delay was a "courtesy" normally extended to the President. Taft insisted it was a "custom" rather than a "courtesy."

McFarland shrugged the matter off as political needling.

Some senators were surprised at Taft's early slap at McFarland, pointing out that the Arizona Democrat was the leadership selection of Southern Democrats whom the Republicans must count on to maintain their "coalition" front against the administration. McFarland was selected majority leader over Sen. O'Mahoney, (D) Wyo., the preference of northern pro-administration Democrats.
